Alice and her ROHO® QUADTRO® SELECT® HIGH PROFILE® Wheelchair Cushion

When a viral infection resulted in a paralysis at age seven, Alice's life changed. At age nine, she began living at a residential facility for people with disabilities where she made many friends and was very independent. Eleven years ago, she made a change. Alice decided to leave the security of the residential setting and find a job in customer service and sales. She felt she could increase awareness of people with disabilities and her personal experience with equipment made her a great fit for her employer, a medical equipment provider in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Alice de Silva is a hard worker who always has a smile on her face. She drives to and from work and often puts in long hours. She has a history of pressure ulcers on her seated surface and is very cautious about her skin. Due to funding and limited product options, she continued to sit on a foam cushion until about one year ago. Over time, she had also developed significant postural asymmetries including hyperlordosis, kyphosis, and a scoliosis. This, combined with her active lifestyle, resulted in significant back pain and discomfort as the day progressed.

When she tried using the ROHO QUADTRO SELECT HIGH PROFILE cushion, she found that she had a decrease in back pain, a decrease in spasticity and she could stay in her chair comfortably, for more hours per day. By using the ISOFLO® Memory Control™ Unit, she could change her position as the day progresses to maintain comfort without sacrificing stability. The QUADTRO SELECT HIGH PROFILE is an ideal product for Alice, because it can support her fixed deformities and protect her skin.

Alice continues to be active in her community and loves spending time with friends. Her equipment gives her the opportunity to experience more. She is not the type of person who can be held back - she is a person who learns by doing and is always looking for new challenges and opportunities.
